Precision Aligner Buttons®

Try the first bondable buttons created for clear aligners

Orthodontists routinely use rubber bands with clear aligners to correct malocclusions. However, these elastics are being attached with components created for braces - not aligners. These auxiliaries too often debond or cause irritation because they have a small surface area and are intended for the centre of the clinical crown.

Here we have a new type of button that fits within the aligner cut out windows, like a puzzle piece.

Whichever aligner system you use—this patented design gives you a reliable bond due to its large surface area and contour.

Now you can reduce your unnecessary emergency patient visits with Precision Aligner Buttons®.

- Base shaped to fit precisely within aligner cut outs for canines and premolars
- Maximum retention through optimal surface area and unique bonding base
- Anatomically correct to match the curvature of molar's cervical third
- Positioning dimple on button face for an explorer or scaler
